About Lime Kiln State Park (see back for MAP):

Lime Kiln State Park is a 36-acre day-use park on the west side of San Juan Island. Due to the unique ocean floor depth near the point, from land viewers can see whales breaching as close as 20 feet!

Lime Kiln State Park is also home to a restored viewable lime kiln from the 19th century, as many were common here as early as the 1860s!
